STATE COLLEGE, Pa., July 10.—(AP)—The Pennsylvania State Board of Education today announced that it had approved the new state curriculum plan for the 1969-70 school year. The plan, which was developed by the state's teachers and administrators, calls for a more flexible and individualized approach to education. It emphasizes the importance of the arts, sciences, and physical education, and encourages students to explore their interests and talents. The board also announced that it had approved a new set of standards for the state's public schools, which will be implemented in the 1970-71 school year. The standards are designed to ensure that all students receive a high-quality education, and to provide a framework for evaluating school performance. The board's decisions were made at a meeting held in Harrisburg, Pa., on July 9. The board is composed of representatives from the state's public schools, higher education, and the general public. It is responsible for setting the state's educational policy and for overseeing the state's public schools. The new curriculum plan and standards are expected to have a significant impact on the state's education system, and to improve the quality of education for all students.
